This research guide is designed for individual use by students studying The Australian Curriculum: History.

Please note, due to licensing arrangements, State Library's subscription databases and eBooks are for private research and study purposes only. They may not be used as teaching resources in classroom environments in schools or other educational institutions and students must not be required to access specific databases or eBooks as part of the curriculum.

Teachers can advise students on State Library's resources and encourage their use to help with their studies and research. Students are encouraged to access State Library's resources at school, but not during class time.

Teachers are most welcome to advise students what is available via State Library, and to encourage students to make use of eBooks and databases to help with their studies. It is permissible for a teacher to demonstrate the use of State Library's catalogue, and to point out how various online material can be accessed.

It is also permissible for students to access State Library's online resources at school – but this must not be during class time. An example of permitted use might be where students have a spare period when they work on assignments or homework, and they are accessing databases as private members of the State Library. Information about joining the State Library is here.

Please also note that State Library has digitised a range of material such as diaries, and out of copyright publications held in our collections. There are no restrictions on the use of this material as part of a teaching program – and no requirement to be a member of the library to use this material. They are easily findable searching our catalogue using the "SLQ digitised collections" option in the dropdown menu.

For reference entries:

Oxford Reference spans 25 different subject areas, bringing together 2 million digitized entries across Oxford University Press's dictionaries, companions, and encyclopedias.

The screenshot shows the Oxford Reference website interface. At the top, the 'Oxford Reference' logo is on the left, and a search bar is on the right. Below the logo, there are navigation tabs for 'Subject' and 'Reference Type'. On the right side of the header, there are links for 'My Content (1)' and 'My Searches (4)'. The main content area features a book cover for 'The Oxford Encyclopedia of Ancient Egypt' on the left. To the right of the cover, the title 'The Oxford Encyclopedia of Ancient Egypt' is displayed, followed by the editor's name 'Donald B. Redford' and a list of awards: '2002 Dartmouth Medal Winner', '2002 Association of American Publishers Best Multivolume Reference, Humanities', '2002 ALA/RUSA Outstanding Reference Source', '2001 Library Journal Best Reference', and '2001 Choice Outstanding Academic Title'. A short description follows: 'Featuring 600 original articles written by leading scholars, The Oxford Encyclopedia of Ancient Egypt goes far beyond the records of archaeology to make available what we know about the full social, political, religious, cultural and artistic legacy of this 5,000-year civilization.' On the far right, a biographical note for Donald B. Redford is provided, identifying him as a professor of Classics and Ancient Mediterranean Studies at Pennsylvania State University.

The Britannica Library has articles, images, and more, with a selection of resources especially for teenagers.

For engaging reading:

National Geographic Virtual Library is a powerful tool for research offering access to over 100+ years of magazines and hundreds of books, maps, videos, and images.
