Colonial Secretary's Correspondence Letters received re Moreton Bay

Colonial Secretary's Correspondence is the communication between the NSW government and the newly established Queensland colony. It outlines the establishment of the colony of Queensland from its inception to separation. These documents were filmed especially for State Library of Queensland from the Archives Office and State Library of NSW during the 1960s to collate primary source records of pre-separation Moreton Bay.

Users are advised that First Nations material in this collection may contain culturally sensitive content that may not normally be used in certain public or community contexts as it can be considered inappropriate today. This material may also contain names of deceased persons.

Digitised collections

State Library has digitised the Colonial Secretary's letters received relating to Moreton Bay and Queensland 1822-1860 from the microfilm collection. State Library staff and volunteers are identifying individual letters in the collection and progressively making them available through the library catalogue – for the latest content see our Collection Guide to the correspondence.
